

Post-Doc Support Group

The post-doc experience can sometimes feel "in between". You are no longer a graduate student, and not yet in a permanent position. Expectations for research and publication are high, and it is often difficult to balance work and family responsibilities. This 6-week group will provide a confidential space for post-docs to discuss concerns and seek support around these challenges.

If you are interested in this group and can attend the majority of the six sessions, please contact David Stanely, M.Ed. at dstanle1@email.unc.edu [1].
